UR POLICE DEPARTMENT.

If there is one thing, more disagreeable an another which the recent police case a forced upon the attention of the Visitoria bilis, it is the unreliable character of our tiles force. No man who has read the testi-copy of the various witnesses in the case of mony of the various witnesses in the once of Regins v Smith can help coming to the one and cuty soundaring, that for, police cataliahment has been a danger and a disgrace to the entire community. When we read of the cool, avdactors manner in which the laws of the country have been compromised—when we learn that the force has been not only an instrument for carrying on a systemized black mail generally, but a means to extort money food men who were afraid that their private lives would be made publiches have soins faint idea of the chann that has been yawning beneath our chann that has been yawning beneath our feet. The most astonishing thing, however, about the matter is that greater ourages have not been reporterated—such nouses have not been organized—such and murders more obest oftener toobbid, and murders more feet. The most automishing thing, however, about the matter is that greater outsigns have not been prepetrated-stath houses have not been cleaser gobbed, and murders mage, frequently committed. With a venial police, what security is there, with all the protective power of its English lew, for life or prepetry? With men who, according to shape own aboving, were milling to accept money as a compromise for the breaking of the law, what degree of safety can we reasonably expect. If it he sentialed thinkers at his expect. If it he sentialed thinkers at his post, the cancer may at the past univaries. , the enemy may steal past unawares there is still the risk of awakening th confines itself no more to "dark Cym-in caves" but stalks forth boldly in the dence which impanity can give. It becomes in fact the greatest power in the State and is less vulnerable than Achilles himself.

The time has come when all this must be Paraco money.

The time has come when all this must be changed—when a policeman must depend upen his legilinate pay for his livelihood, and one upen his legilinate pay for his livelihood, and one upen his legilinate pay for his livelihood, and one upen his legilinate pay for his livelihood, and one upen his large with the original of the received and read out laws, and we must pay them. If we cannot affend to give proper wages to the number we have all present, let as reduce the force to one more commensurate with our means. A couple of honest, vigilant men are much more efficient than a dozen who depend on the crambs thrown by the gaming asloon or the Indian which galler. The same rule of economy must instead be laid down in connection with overy department of Government. We have urged the desirability of placing the police department of Covernment. We have urged the desirability of placing the police department of the control of the corporation, we means of not only inauring a media attention. ment cases the control of the corporation, we a means of you only insuring a, made attentive force, but a very great reduction in the public expenditure. If we are to have a dual government for Yilton's (we like no twan at least a double staff of paid public servants. We want in fact, fewer officials and higher salaries—more work and less temptation. lo
